EACH BLOOD DONOR and his immediate family will be eligible to receive free blood when needed for one year.

Author of "Unsafe at Any Speed," Nader has crusaded for improvement of many consumer products. His current projects are unsafe gas lines and automobile safety precautions.

Nader attacked bus and truck lines for the use of recapped tires, and questioned railroad accident reports. He charged the National Highway Safety Bureau with failing to exercise its enforcement powers.

"About all the bureau has done is log the vehicle defect notifications. There has been no analysis of the adequacy, promptness and effectiveness of callback campaigns," Nader charged.

His articles have appeared in "Atlantic Monthly," the "Nation," "New Republic," "Readers Digest," "Christian Science Monitor," and others.

Two Killed, Five Injured In Accidents

Two Dresden students were killed late Wednesday night when the car in which they were riding hit an embankment, overturned, and burned.

JOHN MICHAEL Hilliard, 18, a freshman in Liberal Arts, and Charles Timothy Spikes, 19, a sophomore in Liberal Arts, were burned beyond immediate recognition, according to local Fire Chief N. B. Williams.

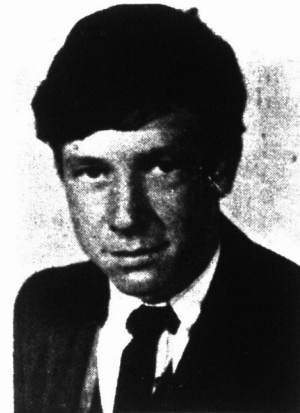

The accident occurred at the intersection of Kennedy and Stella Ruth Roads, near the Three Points Community, about 11:00 p.m. Hilliard's 1962 Oldsmobile failed to make the intersection, and the students were pinned inside the overturned, burning car.

"THERE WERE heavy skid marks for 55 yards," Williams stated. "They were apparently travelling at a high rate of speed."

John Michael Hilliard

Hilliard was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hilliard, and Spikes was the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spikes, both of Dresden. The boys were maternal cousins.

Charles Timothy Spikes

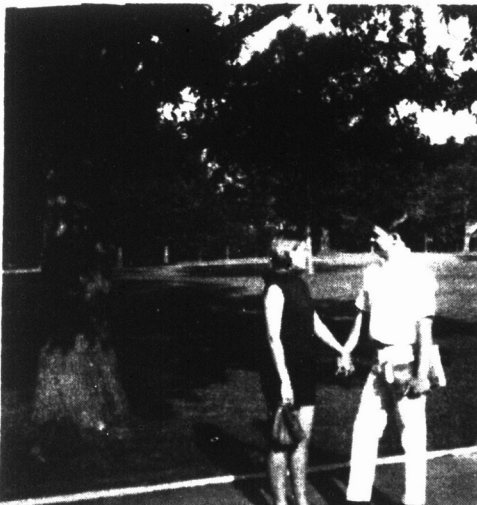

SERGEANT WAYNE Hood of the Tennessee Highway Patrol investigated the accident.

This week's accident brings the campus death toll to three. Joyce Ray Boone, an 18-year-old freshman from Jackson, was killed February 10 in a two car accident which also injured another coed, Joyce Elaine Lipe.

Freedom's Many Meanings Blamed For Nation's Unrest

"Freedom," a word bandied about every street corner within the last decade, connotes a myriad of masterful meanings when left to individual interpretation.

WEBSTER HIMSELF recognizes the word's vast potential defining it as a "very general term, which may imply at one extreme total absence of restraint and at the other, an unawareness of being hampered in any way . . ." In one sense he represents it as "liberation from restraint." Another, "possession of the rights or privileges of a citizen," would suggest a certain amount of responsibility and the restrictions which necessarily go with it.

Running full cycle, Webster also lists "improper familiarity" in freedom's definition. In view of the chaos common in this nation today, it would seem that this particular meaning has been adopted universally and nobly upheld as an unalienable right.

TODAY BASIC institutions and the very foundations of this society are being challenged by groups who would seek to establish "freedom" with their own brand of anarchism. The elimination of basic rules for social living consequently creates chaos and immediately closes all channels for cooperative, constructive achievement.

Man has always had rules for living. To live together collectively, according to the social contract, man agrees to give up a certain amount of his freedom for the sake of order in society and his own well being. Throughout history in cases like Rome, and that of Sodom and Gomorrah, when established mores declined, civilization collapsed.

PERHAPS THIS historical record can speak of contemporary America, a generation of anarchism and violence. In a world where the individual definition of "freedom" varies so significantly, it is unlikely that order can ever come out of all this conflict. A mediation point must be reached.

Perhaps it would be helpful to remember that peaceful change and open-mindedness have always been desirable in a progressive society. Destruction and disorder have only succeeded in undermining basic institutions under the watchful eyes of those who would seek only to have men falter.

"The Arrangement"

"The Arrangement," the phenomenally popular novel that created such a stir in the book world, is nearing the screen.

MOVIEMAKER ELIA KAZAN, who wrote the book, has produced and directed the film on "The Arrangement" from his own screenplay. Shooting was recently completed at the Warner Bros. — Seven Arts Studios in Burbank and Kazan is now supervising editing. The picture is scheduled to be released this fall.

It was expected that Kazan would bring his block-buster novel to the screen with the kind of cast that reflected the stature of the property. He has. The roster of stars is headed by Kirk Douglas, Faye Dunaway, Deborah Kerr, Richard Boone and Hume Cronyn.

Making her screen debut in the film is 18-year-old Dianne Hull.

AS A NOVEL, "The Arrangement" made publishing history. In the original hard-cover edition, it was one of the ten top bestsellers for 42 weeks, the most successful book of the year. As a paperback, it had the largest first printing in history — a whopping 2,400,000 copies. And that was only the first printing. Warner Bros. — Seven Arts bought the screen rights for $500,000.

"The Arrangement" is the story of the American Everyman — and his women. In the midst of plenty and ease, Kazan tells us, we are baffled and desperate and despairing.

THE FOCAL CHARACTER of "The Arrangement" is Eddie Anderson (nee Evange-los Topouzoglu). Eddie is the ad agency man who seems to have it made — a brilliant career, a devoted wife, a fast car, a faster plane, a big pool and a beautiful mistress. These are the arrangements by which Eddie lives. And when he realizes the hollowness of his "arranged" existence, he "flips out" and desperately tries to shape a new life.

Kirk Douglas plays the harried, hungering Eddie Anderson. Faye Dunaway, of "Bonnie and Clyde" fame, is Eddie's lusty mistress, Gwen. Deborah Kerr portrays Eddie's patient, loyal wife.

RICHARD BOONE is the immigrant father whom Eddie loves — and hates. Hume Cronyn plays the friend and lawyer who tries to help Eddie through the crises that overwhelm him. The loving daughter who lives in the shadow of Eddie's tormenting dilemma is Dianne Hull.

Kazan's production of "The Arrangement" marks the first time that an author has made the movie version of his own novel. However, this is far from the first time that Kazan has brought a major property to the screen. Films of this order that Kazan has directed include "Gentleman's Agreement," "On the Waterfront," "East of Eden" and "A Streetcar Named Desire."

KAZAN'S LAST FILM before "The Arrangement" was "America, America," which he produced and directed in 1964. Between then and the start of production of "The Arrangement," his principal project was the novel that was destined to become such a sensational success.

it is an honor to serve my country.

I BELIEVE in the foundations upon which my country was founded. The ROTC program teaches a corner-stone in these foundations. These teachings help me to stand a little taller and to be a little more thankful for the blessing of being born in the United States.

The ones who are most against the ROTC program are the ones who do not participate in the program. This shows immaturity and a lack of training in patriotism. And, also, a lack of knowledge as to the purpose of the curriculum of ROTC.

BEFORE I CHOSE to come to this university, I knew what subjects were offered and what subjects were required. No one forced me to come here, and no one is forcing me to stay. The people who demonstrate against ROTC know that it is required on this campus. No one forced them to come, and no one is forcing them to stay.

The ROTC program is far from perfect. But it is also far from being imperfect. I have not been taught to kill or destroy. The officers it produces participate in the program beyond requirement.

CAN COMPULSORY ROTC co-exist with academic freedom? It can not only co-exist with academic freedom; it is a part of it.

Yours truly,
Michael Willis

Swimsuiters Swap Shapes To Set Interesting Trend

by Margie Brien

Drastic changes and new shapes make the swimsuit concept an interesting trend to delight some and disappoint others -- mainly the calorie counters.

THE ONE PIECE, two-piece, and bikini all set their own trends. For many the "slashed to the waist" silhouette is pleasing in the V-form baring much of the midriff and back. Ruffles, ribbons, or bows add much to this attire.

The two piece takes a new aspect called the peel away look with its own peel off overdress giving it the appearance of a two-piece swimsuit or the even lesser bikini. Oh well, the more to bare to the rays, the better.

PERHAPS THE WORD to describe the bikini would be the adjective scant. And scanty they are with a new three-piece concept. This might be labeled the trikini. Not too many of these are seen, and it seems like a fad.

Turning to pants, we see that they take the lead style day and night. To pass the test, they must touch the heels of shoes when in repose and cover in-steps. More women than ever before will be wearing pants ensembles in the city or for after five wear in a new trend toward evening elegance.

SPORTING MANY new modes, pants include varieties such as stretch denim with straight legs, and printed jeans with belt loops, pockets and flared or straight legs. Pants sets also include shantung pants made with bush jacket shirts trimmed with mother of pearl buttons and belt-buckles, or at home pants in gay printed fabrics with widely flared legs and matching tops in the same print.

There are two basic pant styles. One is comprised of the thirties Garbo and Dagwood look with the very widely flared legs. The other look is that of the lean line, straight-legged trousers. Usually the jacket to go with this type is elongated adding to that tailored, lean look.

THE VARIETY OF shirts with these pants show a comeback for the shirt which is readily adaptable in new and different styles, fabrics, and colors. This time women will wear shirts with pants or as a dress - the updated shirtwaist. There are also yoke back shirts and shirt dresses via the western style.

A relative newcomer is the bush shirt with even longer pointed collars. And there is the shirt shift whose belt may be taken off to wear as a head-band or left on to create a shorter blouse affect.

ALL IN ALL, the pants outfits are taking a lion's share of the attention with their new versatility for evening and daytime.

ROTC Rates High In Annual Review

The Brigade of Cadets headed by Col. Hal Fisher held its annual Federal Inspection Thursday.

THE INSPECTING team from the Third Army was headed by Col. Clinton E. Male.

Highlights of the inspection included a briefing by the Cadet Brigade Staff and a parade.

"THE ESPIRIT de corp was very high among the cadre, as was the cooperation of the administration and the corps," Col. Male commented.

Approximately 900 students enrolled in the ROTC program participated in the dress parade, passing in review before Chancellor Archie R. Dykes, Col. George L. Freeman, and Col. Clinton Male.

IN A WRITTEN critique on the Military Science Department and ROTC program, Colonel Male made the following observations:

1. Assistance, cooperation and support of the administration and cadre is outstanding.
2. FACILITIES are more than adequate.
3. Appearance, morale and performance of the cadets was outstanding.
4. TEAMWORK AND spirit of the cadre was outstanding.
5. The Flight Training Program is outstanding in every respect.
6. CLASSROOM instruction was excellent.

Hoy Lectures On Guadeloupe

Dr. Don R. Hoy gave an illustrated lecture on the French Guadeloupe Islands in the West Indies last Thursday, at the annual meeting of the Pi Sigma Phi Honor Society.

A MEMBER OF the faculty at the University of Georgia, Dr. Hoy's lecture was based on a study he made in Guadeloupe on the historical, economic and political aspects of the use of the land since the islands were settled in the 16th century.

Approximately 97 members of Pi Sigma Phi and their guests attended the banquet and lecture held in the University Center ballroom.

DR. JIMMY N. TRENTAM assumed the office of president, succeeding Dr. Charles Mangam, and Dr. William H. Baker was made president-elect in a ballot preceding the event. Other officers are Miss Bettye Giles, treasurer; Miss Harriet Fulton, secretary, and Wayne Tansil, reporter.

Dr. Trentam announced that the Pi Sigma Phi Honor Society, which was organized on campus five years ago, has been invited to submit a petition seeking membership in the Phi Kappa Phi National Honor Society. A representative of the national organization visited here recently and indicated that a petition for membership would be given serious consideration in September or before.

'Characature'

by Rusty Farrell

"It scared me at first. I was afraid I wouldn't fit in."

FOUR YEARS SINCE that initial reaction to the UTM scene, David Shepard has managed to "fit in" two class presidencies, Student Government Senator, three offices in his fraternity including president, All Sing Director for two years, Scabbard and Blade, numerous student-faculty committees, two summers on the pipeline, and a trip to Hawaii.

The 21-year-old senior from Dickson credits a "take life as it comes, don't let the little things get you down" attitude as the key to his transition from a small town "high school hero" into a confident college senior.

TWO SUMMERS OF sweat on the pipelines built a physical stamina that Shepard puts to good use on his typical 18-hour day of pre-med classes and extracurricular activities.

In looking back, "Shep" was quick to pick the task of fraternity president as his most demanding undertaking. "Being the head of 50 men participating in all phases of campus life, plus building a new house for ourselves really kept me jumping."

A STRONG ADVOCATE of the Greek System, Shepard feels that the "holding of grudges" on the part of administration, faculty and community for occasional Greek misdeeds is a mistake.

"They see only the bad and never the good with fraternities," he said, "If these other sectors would work to help improve the Greek System on campus, instead of just putting up with it, they would realize that fraternities are legitimate, representative bodies of students working within the organizational framework of our Student Government."

SHEPARD DOES FIND time to get away from the worries of Greeks and campus affairs now and then. When he does, it's travel time. Spring vacation saw Shepard and two other advanced ROTC Cadets flying military standby to San Francisco and then on to Hawaii. "San Francisco is really beautiful and there are a lot of interesting places to see, but I don't like the way everyone dresses out there," he noted. "It's a little too hippie for me."

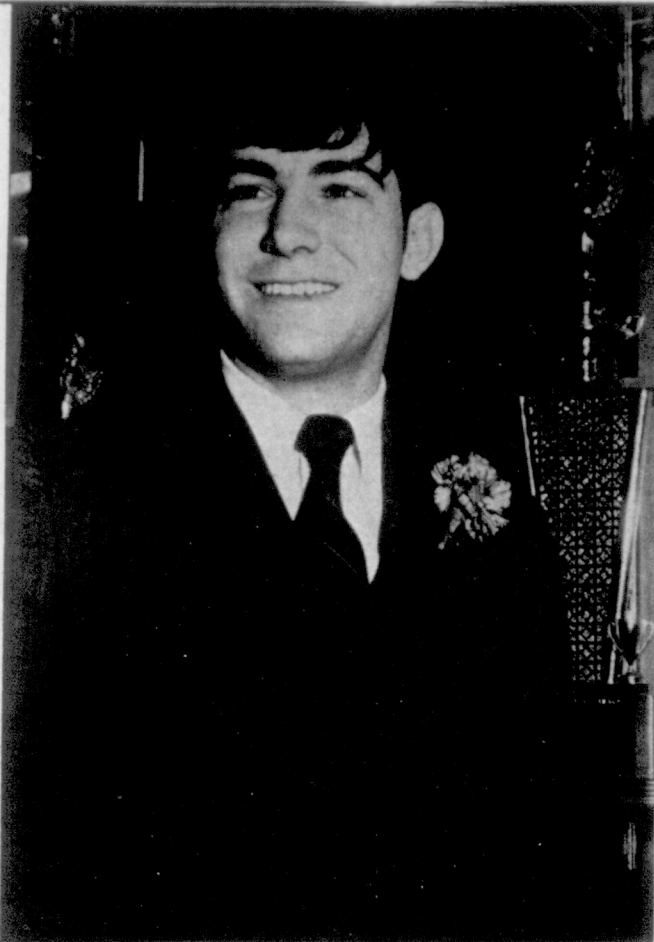

"Hawaii is beautiful too, and the Polynesian girls are really fine. I'd like to go back again someday," Shepard said.

WHAT IS THE biggest change that has taken place since he has been at UTM? "Student Government," answers the UTM senior. "When I came here, four years ago, Student Government was nothing, but in the last two years the students have really begun to take part. Now look at any change that affects students. Dorm hours, exam scheduling, teacher evaluation, library hours—changes in all of these have come through Student Government."

In this year of campus riots and rebellions, Shepard feels that the most susceptible schools are those with great gaps in communication between students, administration, faculty and community.

"UTM HAS A unity, a spirit of working together that makes communication easy," he says. "If every sector of our academic community keeps these channels of communication open, the changes to come at UTM will be both constructive and progressive."

Army life will call Shepard to active duty in August. After (Continued on page 6)

IMPROMPTU IMPRESSARIO — Crawford Gallimore, Violette business manager and junior in Business, croons with Letterman Tony Butula during Monday night's concert.

Lettermen Draw Record Attendance For Season

The Lettermen made their second appearance in three years here Monday night, and Student Government Secretary of Communications Ken Becker called the concert "a wonderful way to close the year."

THE GROUP INCLUDES Tony Butala, Gary Pike, and Doug Curran who is substituting for ailing Jim Pike. An audience of 2,500 demanded three curtain calls before the evening of entertainment was concluded.

"We were really pleased with the audience response," Becker said.

THE TRIO HAS been making the college circuit since 1961. They also perform at nightclubs around the country, and their next scheduled television appearance is the Ed Sullivan Show.

"We have performed at over 1,300 colleges over the past eight years," green-eyed Tony remembers. "At least, I think it has been eight years. But it certainly doesn't seem like that long," he said.

"WE ENJOYED THE show very much tonight. We always enjoy performing to a responsive audience who makes us enjoy ourselves," Tony continued.

Tony and Doug did most of the talking backstage. Gary was doing last minute packing. The Lettermen travel to Ole Miss for their next appearance.

DOUG IS A newcomer to the group, a three month veteran. He is replacing Jim Pike who is recuperating from a throat infection.

"My favorite recording artist is Sergio Mendez. My favorite group is the Association, and of course, the Lettermen," Doug quipped.

"I SUPPOSE MY favorite groups would be the Beatles and the Four Freshmen. Richard Harris is a favorite, and I really dig Dusty Springfield," Tony revealed.

"Soft soul is my kind of music," Tony continued.

A BIG CRITICISM of the entertainer's road life is the lack of time to spend at home and with his family.

"We spend one month at Christmas and one month in the summer away from the road. We relax and do nothing but enjoy being lazy," Tony commented.

"I THINK WE have outlasted many of the other singing groups because we don't adopt fads. We incorporate the sounds of the time in our own way and don't make our songs pattern the fad. When folk came along, we added some to our routine. We have added some psychedelic sounds to our present songs, but we still retain our basic harmony," Tony said.

"Our group began in 1961. We were members of defunct vocal groups," Tony recalls. "Our very first recording session was for Warner Brothers. The record wasn't a success. Then we recorded for Capital. Side A was supposed to be the hit. Instead, side B, 'The Way You Look Tonight' became the popular chart climber and put us on the first rung of the success ladder. Of course, that is my favorite song," Tony said.

"I LIKE TO CLOSE THE show with our rendition of 'I Believe,'" Tony said. "It is almost like a prayer to me."

And on that note, the Lettermen concluded their command performance. The audience was still during the entire song. When it was finished, applause followed the trio off the stage and into the dressing room.

Orange-White Game Ends Spring Drills

Kickoff time for the annual Orange-White intra-squad scrimmage game which will mark the end of spring football drills is scheduled for Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

THE ANNUAL CLASSIC will feature the first team offense against the first team defense and the second team offense versus the second team defense. Quarterbacks for the two teams will be Tom Slack of Knoxville and Glenn Lowe of Collierville.

The first team offense will be headed by the running of Duff "Bronco" Maki, Bob Moulton, and the blocking of John Stoddard. Heading the defensive unit are Tom McKelvy, Terry Butcher, Bill Powell, and Henry "Killer" Ruth.

"OFFENSIVELY, we are improving steadily, but we still have a lot of progress to make," head coach Robert Carroll said. "Our defensive unit is also developing rapidly, but inexperience is our biggest problem squadwise."

"All of the players have worked hard during spring drills, and Saturday's encounter should be an interesting one for the spectators," Carroll added.

There will be no admittance charge for UTM students.
